My background training came from working on the prime-time TV show 'Shortland Street' for 50 hours a week and shooting an average of 30 minutes a day. Through that time I developed my skill as a multi-camera and location camera operator. I have also worked hard with the Steadicam using the rig regularly and enjoy the challenges and opportunities that it presents. I pride myself in my ability to problem solve efficiently while offering creative solutions in a fast turn around shooting environment. As somewhat of a new freelancer I look forward to advancing my skill as a camera operator, establishing myself further in the industry, and continuing to work with like minded and talented crew.
